

Abstract

Genetic music generated by decoding and transcribing genetic information within a DNA sequence into a music signal having melody and harmony, and useful in the production of novel consumer products, identification systems, and diagnostic tools.